dered, and a contact of the soldiery with foreigners is prohibited.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25—Russell slept at intervals during the night; three ladies being in the cell constantly, and a triple guard at the door. This morning, about half-past 10 o'clock, he was taken from the cell in the lower corridor, to one adjoining the scaffold on the second corridor, and was attended by spiritual advisers and the three lady friends above mentioned. He ascended the stairs with a light step, but seemed laboring under much nervous excitement. He stopped a moment to speak to two members of the press, and said he would have no statement to make on the scaffold, but had left one with Rev. Dr.
Carpenter, to be given to the public after his death. He then went to the cell close to the scaffold. Before the hour of 12 o'clock, M., a large crowd assembled in front of the jail, and many persons on the roofs of buildings around the jail, and no possibility of seeing any part of the proceedings, yet there they stood in the hot sun as if nailed to the ground.
At half-past 12 o'clock the corridor of the jail was crowded. The deputies fixed the fatal trap and all was in readiness, when Captain Douglas came with a note to the Sheriff. The Sheriff read it and retired to the office of the jail. He had a long consultation. The fatal hour, 1 o'clock, P. M., had arrived, still the Sheriff did not appear. At five minutes past 1 o'clock, Chief Jailor, Col. McKenzie, came to the gallows and said: "Gentlemen—The execution of Russell is postponed till half-past 2 o'clock, P. M." Several voices in the crowd exclaimed, loudly, "thank God," and there was a murmur of applause all around. It is understood that Sheriff Adams will delay the execution till the very last moment, hoping to hear from Governor Booth, who is said to be at the Summit or Lake Tahoe.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Russell was hanged at half-past 2 o'clock, P. M. He made no statement. He died without a struggle.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Russell was executed at 25 minutes past 2 P. M. He ascended the scaffold with a firm step, preceded by Sheriff Adams and followed by Rev. Mr. Carpenter and Rev. Mr. Williams. The condemned man stepped on the fatal drop, glanced a moment with his large, dark, lustrious eyes at the crowd, up at the sky, through the lights of the corridor and at the beam above his head. Dr. Carpenter asked if the statement given to him was true. He replied, "It is true, so help me God." Russell smiled when the officers commenced pinioning his arms and legs, carefully adjusted his feet so as to facilitate their work and aided all in his power to adjust the fatal noose. He was spared the torture of hearing the death warrant read. When the black cap was pulled over his face he leaned toward Mr. Carpenter and spoke. The latter lifted the cap partially off his face, when Russell kissed his lips and said, "God bless you." The signal was then given, the spring touched, and Charles A. Russell was no more.
He died with scarcely a struggle.

Rev. Mr. Carpenter exclaimed: "Now they have done this to him, they can do no more." Sheriff Adams, the clergymen and several others on the scaffold were affected to tears. Russell gave to Rev. Mr. Carpenter a full history of his life, which, the receipt says, will place his character in a better light before the public.

The trial of Capt. Jas. F. Lewis of the ship Crusader, on a charge of having withheld suitable food from sailor S. Neilson, was held today. The jury could not agree. On the second indictment for cruelly beating and wounding the same, the jury acquitted him.

The last will of James Kelly was filed to-day for probate. It recites that being dangerously ill from wounds received May 2, 1873, in the Belcher mine, Gold Hill, he makes his will, bequeathing all his property to his sisters, Mary Bane and Bridget Delaney, New York.

The reported withdrawal of the steamship line to Honolulu is denied at headquarters.

The funeral of Russell will take place tomorrow, from the Howard Street Presbyterian Church, Revs. Carpenter, Dodge and Cunningham officiating. It is stated that the funeral expenses will be borne by Mrs Page and Mrs.
Moore. Both ladies were at the jail at the time of the execution.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—The Republican County Convention met to-night and adopted a platform, the substance of which may be briefly stated as follows: Indorse the present national administration, all its measures, foreign and domestic policy; favor uniformity of taxation and without favoring any corporation, capitalists or large landed proprietors, opposed to the cession of any portion of Goat Island to the railroad; favor a scientific system of the water front of the city by which all advantages may be secured for trade and commerce; make the city front accessible to all railroad companies; declare that rates of fare and freight on railroads ought to be controlled by the Legislature, based on a general and uniform standard; favor a repeal of the five per cent. law, so far as it affects this city; favor legislation and a modification of treaties to prevent further influx of Chinese or other people, who cannot or will not become citizens.
The Convention adopted a resolution requiring all candidates to pledge themselves in writing to support the platform.
All candidates required to hold themselves unpledged on the Senatorial election. Platform also favors the districting of the State Senatorial and Assembly districts, based on a fair apportionment of the voting population, also the extension and firm support of the Common School system in the State.

Richard Chore offered several amendments which were voted down.

After the adoption of the platform, the Convention received over fifty names of candidates for Assembly, communications from whom were read and placed on file, after which the Convention adjourned.

The only arrest of importance by the police to-night, was Mary Murray, charged with robbing a country man of a considerable sum of money.

There was a fire this evening on Dupont street, in a Chinese house. The damage was only about $300.

Interior California.

HEALDSBURG, July 25.—About nine o'clock last evening, some parties were heard by City Marshal Clack carousing in the Healdsburg saloon. He went to the front door and heard the proprietor, C. C. Benoist, tell a man named Briggs not to shoot, entered and ordered him to desist upon which Briggs turned, and leveling a pistol at Clack, fired. The ball entered about four inches above and to the right of the navel, ranging down, and coming out above the hip-bone. Some hope is given of his recovery. Briggs is under arrest. There is some talk of lynching him.

SANTA CRUZ, July 25.—During an affray between two celestials this afternoon, Yee Noon sustained wounds of a dangerous character, it is stated with a hatchet, severing the right arm from the shoulder to the elbow. The officers have escaped arrest so far.

CHICO, July 26.—To-day is the warmest of the season. The thermometer stood in the Western Union Telegraph Office at 4 o'clock this afternoon at 97° in the sun 156°. In frame buildings it reached as high as 110.

STOCKTON, July 25.—Yesterday evening Deputy Sheriff Baddeley of Napa county arrived to take David Hutchinson, arrested by Chief Myers yesterday. The prisoner is accused of a grievious offense. Accused is about 25 years of age, and was an inmate of the family of his brother residing in Napa City. It is alleged that Hutchinson, taking advantage of his brother's absence, drugged his sister-in-law, nearly causing the death of herself and nursing babe. When she recovered consciousness she found her infant lying beside her, apparently lifeless. At first it was thought both were poisoned, but subsequent developments warranted the conclusion that Hutchinson had administered the drug for a vile purpose.
He absconded shortly afterwards, and nothing was known of his whereabouts until yesterday, when Chief Myers arrested him. The prisoner alleges that at the time of the commission of the crime he was under the influence of liquor.

The political pot is simmering. The Democrats of this county are resolved to nominate a straight out-and-out Democratic ticket.

Weather excessively warm. Thermometer, 97° in the shade.

ARIZONA.

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—The Arizona Miner of the 19th inst. says that Chas Ford was shot and killed at Chloride on the 16th inst. by Joseph Burnard. On examination before a justice it was shown that Burnard acted in self-defence. Ford fired the first two shots.

In General Order No. 24 Gen. Crook makes

SEATTLE CORRESPONDENCE.

SEATTLE, July 22, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The great question has been at last finally,
and let us hope, eternally settled; and long ere this has been heralded throughout the entire Pacific coast. Whether adverse to the better anticipations of the many most interested, or to the interests of a few persons seeking to enrich themselves, no longer remains a problem to perplex the mind or bewilder the senses.
Of course, we are speaking of the "terminus"
—a subject which has for a long period attracted the attention and enlisted the interest of the entire people of this Territory.

On the 14th of this month a dispatch was received here by A. A. Denny, chairman of the committee of seven, appointed to confer with the R. R. Commissioners—Rice and Ainsworth—reading thus: "We have located the terminus on Commencement Bay." This might reasonably have been expected to surprise those who had been so active in securing the subsidy for the consideration of the terminus location at this place; more especially when we remember this county and city had offered the enormous sum, in lands at assessed value and in coin, of $717,000—not taking any notice of natural geographical advantages, which are beyond comparison. That they were not astonished, is attributable to the fact that it was generally believed Seattle was being played off against Tacoma to make us come out liberally.

After the result of all the trouble and expense had been received, a meeting was called for last Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, to make known the report of the Committee, and also to devise some means whereby Seattle, the hitherto chief city on the Sound, should be able to maintain her supremacy as a commercial metropolis, and successfully "checkmate" this future rival town. The Committee, through the Chairman, stated what had been done by them —that all had been done that was possible to secure the terminus; that our donation had greatly exceeded that of Tacoma; and that to expect any future benefit from the N. P. R. R. was out of the question and absurd. A plan was then submitted by the Committee, to take what had been already subscribed to the Northern Pacific Railroad, and add to it all that could be raised, and construct a railroad from this point, by way of the Snoqualmie Pass, through the rich and fertile Yakima valley to Walla Walla—there to connect with the road now in course of construction from that point to Wallula, and finally to form a connection with the Union Pacific Railroad, thus ultimately securing a direct line to the East. This proposition was unanimously adopted, and all the principal property owners of Seattle pledged themselves to assist to the utmost this magnificent and highly feasible enterprise. On Friday evening another meeting was held in the pavilion by those who were principally interested in the measure, to organize the company and fix the amount of capital stock, etc., etc. It was determined that the stock should be fixed at $10,000,000, to be divided into 100,000 shares of $100 each; the duration of said Company to be fifty years. Its name shall be the "Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad and Transportation Company;" and its object shall be not only to build a road over the mountains, including all necessary diverging lines from the main trunk line, but also to build or purchase steamboats to run upon the waters of the Sound, and steamships to ply upon the Pacific ocean. (We neglected to state that at the meeting of the previous evening, resolutions were read, asking that all lands withdrawn in favor of the N. P. R. R. Company, from public sale, should be released from such withdrawal, inasmuch as a great portion of said lands are of the most valuable in the Territory—including within their limits large coal fields, rich agricultural and magnificent timber districts—and which, owing to the withdrawal from the market, are preventing their occupation by a great many bona fide settlers, thereby doing great injury to the entire interests of the Territory; and that the resolutions be forwarded to Hon. Willis Drummond, Commissioner of the General Land Office, and also to Hon. C. Delano, Secretary of the Interior, at Washington.
These very necessary and highly important resolutions were passed, and it was also determined that, should the forwarding of the above resolutions fail to secure speedy action in the matter, petitions should be widely circulated and signed, demanding immediate release of such lands.)

Thus it will be seen that the organization is of sufficient comprehensiveness to anticipate the wants of the entire Territory for many years to come; and that in initiating an enterprise of such magnificent proportions, the incorporators are laying the corner-stone for freedom for all time from monopolies and rings. Should the

SEATTLE AND WALLA WALLA RAILROAD AND TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

Meet with the success which should certainly attend it—and if honesty of purpose, energy, determination and feasibility of undertaking are promoters and forerunners of success, there can be no shadow of a doubt of the ultimate triumph of this—it will prove a rival more formidable to the Great Northern Pacific Railroad Company than is at present imagined.

To commence a few of the many great advantages of the proposed line of railroad over the N. P. R. R. is easily done, and perhaps worth the time. A line from Seattle to connect with the Walla Walla and Wallula railroad would be from and after the completion of the first twenty-five miles from this place, self-sustaining, as it would in that distance from here strike one of the richest and best coal mines on the Pacific coast, the owners of which are only waiting for the opening of the road to enable them to take out and daily transport to this point hundreds of tons of that most valuable article. From one end to the other the line would be but about 200 miles in length, and besides these inexhaustible mines we have just named, would also traverse thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands in the world—all on this side of the Snoqualmie Pass, which lies about 80 miles nearly due east from here and which has been frequently surveyed by the most skilful and competent engineers in America, and pronounced by them perfectly adapted to the building of the road, the greatest altitude of the Pass being only a fraction over 3,000 feet above the level of the ocean. No tunneling would be necessary in the work of construction, and snow-sheds would be needed to a limited extent, if at all. On crossing the mountains the line immediately strikes and runs through one of the most productive and faultless regions of country anywhere to be found. We refer to the Yakima valley—the very paradise of the stock-raiser, and also affording fine facilities to the latter. Besides all which, the road will tap an extensive and very rich bed of iron ore, which at no very remote period will be one of the exports from this wonderfully wealthy mineral Territory. Then take into consideration for one moment the fact that the above route is at least 200 miles shorter than the route via Kalama and the Columbia river water line of railroad; and also that Seattle is from twenty-five to thirty miles nearer the ocean than the terminus of the N. P. R. R., and we submit that if this array of facts—though but just briefly and imperfectly noticed—does not present a cheering and hopeful future for Seattle, we are at a loss to know what would produce a favorable impression.

AN AFFRAY.

A very serious if not fatal affray took place here on last Saturday evening, between two men, named Terry and Wright, in which the latter was dangerously if not fatally wounded by the former. The exact circumstances of the encounter we could not learn, more than that Terry, who was drunk, went to the saloon in which Wright was bar-tender, and from some cause a quarrel and angry words ensued, immediately after which Terry left the saloon, but soon returned, and after some further altercation drew a pistol and discharged the contents into the body of Wright, the ball entering immediately below the left nipple and ranging round to the right side, where it was afterwards found to be lodged, and was extracted. Terry was immediately arrested and taken to jail. Wright is in an extremely critical condition, and hopes for his recovery are not strong.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Seattle Library Association was organized about ten months ago, and is now in a very prosperous condition. The association has, since its organization, purchased from $1,500 to $2,000 worth of books, and has a large membership. On its tables can be found papers and periodicals from almost every State in the Union. It is, perhaps, the only library association in the Territory which has a regularly employed and salaried Librarian.

STILL ALIVE AND WELL.

The "terminus" has affected Seattle less than any other town on the Sound. None of the business men are leaving here. Several of those characters without which any place is much better, are leaving, but none of the substantial business men are closing up here to open in Tacoma. Certainly trade is not so brisk as if Seattle had been favored with the location, but not securing that great desideratum, they are awakened—not to a sense of helplessness and despondence, but to a realization of their own might and strength, and to the fact that upon their own action depends, wholly, either complete vindication and success, or utter failure and defeat. Accordingly every energy is concentrated upon this work of opposition to monopoly, and it is promised that surveyors will be in the field locating the road at least by the last of August.

MARINE.

The bark Forest Queen arrived here last Tuesday evening with nine passengers and a light freight of about 80 tons. She will load with lumber at Port Ludlow, for Melbourne, Australia.

The barkentine Eureka arrived here on the 19th, in ballast. She will load at Yesler's Mill with lumber, most probably for San Francisco.

At Port Townsend on the 18th, ships Alexander, Cuba and Pandina arrived; also barks Oregon Sampson and Condor.

At Madison, on the 13th the ship Macedon sailed for San Francisco, and on the 17th the Northwest.

At Dunkle on the 12th bark Alden Besse arrived, and on the 18th the Buena Vista sailed.

THE LITTLE HORRORS.—In regard to the late tragedy in Winchester, Va., an account of which has heretofore been published, a Winchester correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes as follows:

Mr. Little, Sr., father of the family, is engaged in Washington City, and hastened home on Saturday evening on learning the news of the terrible affair, which is now the great theme of conversation in this whole section of the country. As yet all the facts in the case are not known beyond the account of the desperate struggle which has been given. Oscar Little is a druggist, and is generally called Dr.
Little. Some time ago, it is stated, he and Lycurgus secured what they were entitled to or what they would be entitled to, from the family estate, and went West, but spending their property, returned, making other demands, which were resisted by the three other brothers and the mother. In the fight Oscar Little's pistol snapped several times, and proved worthless as a weapon. Lycurgus, at the first fire, missed his brother Clinton and shot his mother, and fired again, giving Clinton the mortal wound. In the subsequent melee Oscar and Lycurgus were overpowered, disarmed, and driven out of the house.
Columbus, one of the brothers acting on the defensive, is a very powerful man, and Gilbert, who fired the rifle, is very delicate. They were both badly cut and injured about the head by the attacking party with the butt-ends of pistols. Afterward, it is alleged, Oscar and Lycurgus again returned to the house, the former with a rifle ball in his leg, and took a large dose of morphine, which, however, did not have the desired effect. Finally Oscar and Lycurgus were placed under arrest and conveyed to the county jail of Clarke county.

HUMOR THE FRENCH MINISTRY.—A Paris journal lately perpetrated the following squib at the expense of the French ministry:

A gentleman lately presented himself at the residence of a new minister.

"I wish to see Monsieur X, if you please."

"He does not live here, just now; he is stationed at Versailles."

"Since when?"

"Since he became a member of the cabinet."

"Ah, he has entered the new cabinet? He good enough to allow me to sit down a moment. I will wait till he goes out of office."

This will apply with much more effect to our Spanish friends. They change cabinets so often that those going out of office and going in form an unbroken procession.

The M. E. Church held an interesting campmeeting at Sodaville, Linn county, last Sabbath. A large crowd was in attendance, and were regaled at great length by about half a dozen ministers.

OREGON.

Four wagon loads of coastwise board produce passed through McMinnville the past week.

A postoffice has been established at Big Prairie in Lane county, and Addison Black appointed to preside over the same.

Yamhill raises 37 stalks of wheat from one grain and every stalk over six feet high. And there is a whole field of such wheat.

Having lost the commercial fair from the county, and consequently Albany is as dull as it can be and not stop business altogether.

Mr. A. Talmadge, of McMinnville, was thrown from and killed by a horse a few days ago. He received a severe cut in the head.

Wilson, who was arrested on a charge of re-sault with intent to kill, was tried at Tillamook and found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

Nay Gird, son of Wm. Gird of Albany, a lad aged 13 or 14 years, was thrown from a horse on Tuesday morning last, by which his left arm was broken near the wrist.

W. Squires and son were tried at Tillamook for robbery and were acquitted but were convicted on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and fined $200 and $100 respectively.

The Lafayette Courier says: "Harvesting of fall sown grain is progressing rapidly in all directions. Mr. Henry has some shocks to tell that it required a ladder to get the "cars" on."

A little child of Chas. Barnes of Albany was severely scalded last Wednesday, caused by its upsetting a kettle of boiling jelly and emptying the contents over its neck and breast.

From those who attended the dance at Aurora the past week, we learn that the affair passed off very pleasantly. The afternoon was spent in promenading, etc., and the evening in dancing. All came home pleased and sleepy.

Mr. John Peck, a farmer residing about nine miles south of Albany, had two valuable horses stolen from his pasture one night last week. Diligent search has been made for the thief, but no clue has been found as to his whereabouts yet.

A little son of Mr. John Fagan, of Santiam Valley, Nicholas, aged 10 years, one day this week, was engaged feeding his father's horses, when one of the animals, in attempting to kick another, missed and struck young Nicholas on the outer rim of the left eye, producing concussion of the brain.

Mr. Gustaff Wilson of McMinnville, has a book, the first edition of Thomas Smith Webb, perhaps the oldest Masonic publication in the United States, bearing date September 15, 1797.
This book has been carefully used, and is perfectly preserved; yet the shade of many years is shown on its dingy leaves, and its quaint style of print and make up, shows it to be a relic of days long past.

Dr. Mahon, writing to the Mercury says: "I am now opening a fine vein of anthracite coal one mile west of Monroe, and two and three quarters of a mile from the Wallamet river, with a good wagon road already in use. This coal is superior for blacksmithing, it having been tested within the past few days by competent workmen." We guess the Doctor is mistaken as to the character of the coal.

Persons from different sections of the Wal-lamet Valley inform us that the reports of the lodging of grain by the late rains were greatly exaggerated. Very few fields have suffered serious damage. The crop prospects are better than ever before known. The hay crop also is excellent. Harvesting will begin in earnest next week. Many fields of grain are now in condition to cut, and the hay harvest is pressing forward.

G. A. Davis, a resident of Silverton precinct, Marion county, had an arm broken a few days ago under the following circumstances: He was driving a baby team, and coming to a steep place in the road the horses refused to pull the load and stopped. Mr. Davis went in front of them and attempted to lead them, when one of the horses reared up and struck him with his forefoot breaking his arm between the shoulder and elbow.

The proceedings of Thursday, the 24th inst., in the Supreme Court were as follows: Present, the Chief Justice and all the Associate Justices and officers of the Court as before. Starkweather vs. Holcomb; motion to dismiss the appeal, motion allowed, judgment of the Court below affirmed, and 10 per cent. on judgment below allowed. Henderson vs. Morris; motion filed to dismiss appeal, and a cross motion for relief set for hearing to-morrow morning. Tor-nell vs. Kruzr; appeal from Marion county; argument began. The Court adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Reformer says: The Secretary of State, Mr. Chadwick, has added much to the convenience of the Supreme Court and bar by rearranging the library rooms, where the Supreme Court is held. The partition has been removed and the room enlarged quite nine-third—repainted and fitted up in a very neat and tasteful style. On the same floor, and adjoining the Supreme Court rooms, he has fitted up a consultation room, evincing the same regard for the comfort and convenience of the Judges as is manifested in all the Secretary has done about these apartments. The Governor's rooms have also been fitted up in admirable style by the Secretary, who appreciates the importance of having these apartments not only neat and comfortable for the occupants, but creditable to the State.

Court was held in Tillamook county a few weeks ago. A number of lawyers and Judge Bonham assembled in Miller's warehouse, which had been prepared by rolling the wool bales on one side, carrying the beer kegs out of doors, inverting a dry goods box for the judge's bar, using a table with a blanket on it for the bar, and planks on nailkegs for the rest of the county. Tillamook was there in best bib and tucker. The hardy pioneer who had spent twenty years by that "sounding sea," and never seen the like, stood aghast but didn't forget his meeting clothes. Those who had "biled shirts" wore them, and those who had none did the best they could, but all came. Court proceedings were about as usual. The jun-rors all showed a favorable state of intelligence, and by the way, the people of that section, though living isolated, are not so far behind the age as some suppose.

The Oregon City Enterprise says: "Steps have been taken to secure a subscription among printers to erect a suitable monument to the honor of the late Jelan Fleming, who died at that place about a year ago. There is nothing more that the craft should do. Uncle John was a man of integrity and an honor to the fraternity and being the pioneer printer on the Northwestern coast, it is right to call from printers of this and adjoining States and Territories it will take but little from each printer and we know that their liberality will promptly respond to this worthy object. Let us suitably mark the spot where the old patriarch rests from his toils. At present there is nothing to designate his resting place. It is proposed not to call on any but printers to contribute to this fund, but such old friends of Uncle John's who may feel it a privilege to give to this object can do so, and the same will be duly acknowledged."

The McMinnville Reporter says: At meeting of the Board of Trustees of the McMinnville College, held a few days since, some important business was transacted. Prof. Russ signified that he might be able to take charge of most important work in the church. The Board accepted the resignation of Prof Robb as President of the College, and unanimously elected him Vice President and Professor of Mathematics, which position he accepted.
Prof. Robb received the highest compliments of the Board for the able manner in which he had conducted the college during the last two years, as President. Professor Bailey, late of California, was elected President. He comes highly recommended by leading educators of the coast. As an appreciation of her efficient labors in the school Miss Annie Bean was continued as Preceptress. The college is now upon a flourishing basis. Our citizens appreciate its benevolence, and cannot but see that it is to their interest to lend their efforts in advancing its power."

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 26, 1873.

NOT A PARTY MATTER.

The Albany (N. Y.) Journal thus closes an article on "The Period of Repose":

The renewed contest will commence on high. But a little time will intervene before we shall again be in the thick of the fight. Upon that new conflict the Republican party will enter with the prestige and power won in the old. It has faithfully discharged the trust of the people. It has fulfilled its high pledges. If any of its representatives have been derelict, it has disowned and condemned them. The Credit Mobilier is not charged to it—as witness the vote of New Hampshire at the late election to the election of Congressmen. The salary grab cannot be laid at its door—witness the universal condemnation on the part of Republican presses and Conventions. And there is no reason why, in renewing the battle by and by the Republican party should not march to victory as of old.

Those who think to make headway against the Republican party by charging it with the Credit Mobilier and back-pay disgrace, presume greatly upon the ignorance of the people. To suppose that these things are chargeable to one party and not to the other, is to know nothing of the facts in the premises. Whoever has learned enough of the truth to be influenced by it in his vote, has learned enough to know that in neither of these great corruptions did the representatives of either party stand alone in yielding to the temptation. What has been seen in those States that have held elections since the transactions referred to have been made the subject of public and general discussion, will be seen in Oregon. The people will justly regard the person who attempts to make these steals a ground of attack upon the Republican party as wanting either in candor or intelligence. The few men who sold their honor for Credit Mobilier stock and were found out by their sins, will probably have to lie on the shelf for some time to come or go as Ministers to Japan—and those who persuaded their consciences to be quiet while they grabbed their respective shares of the sixteen hundred thousand dollars infamously voted into their pockets from the public treasury, will hardly find their constituencies so easily persuaded into acquiescence as their consciences were. But their evil deeds will fall upon their own heads, and not upon the parties that elected them. This is being demonstrated every day. When either party shall refuse its authoritative denunciation of these or any other crimes specifically charged and proven against its representatives and thus make itself an accessory after the fact, it will be time enough to attempt to make the party responsible for such crimes.

THE PLYMOUTH INVESTIGATION.

Most of the respectable journals very wisely refused to make themselves the abettors of Victoria Woodhull in her vile and filthy attack upon Mr. Beecher, by republishing the substance of her charges. They did not regard the reputation of Mr. Beecher as being of too much value to be weighed in the scale against stories published in defamation by such a person as Woodhull. If the reputation of having lived a pure and noble life is worth anything at all, its possessor may safely rely upon it as a sufficient shield and defense against attack from such source. Thus considered the majority of those who knew the nature of the charges against Beecher, and so reasoning they thought the latter did exactly the right thing when he did nothing.

But the publication of the tripartite covenant between Beecher, Tilton and Bowen, puts another face upon the matter. It introduces new parties who stand as well as Mr. Beecher, one of those, Mr. Tilton, being the same referred to by Woodhull. So it appears that other persons, besides Woodhull had been circulating evil reports about Mr. Beecher, and that the case had assumed such a phase as made it necessary for the parties to come to some definite understanding in reference to it. It is evident that Woodhull had got possession of the circumstances out of which this covenant arose, by some means, probably through the interviews between herself and Mr. Tilton when he was engaged in writing her biography. With these circumstances as a basis, and with such further knowledge as they would furnish the clue to, she could readily fabricate a story that would have a large enough grain of truth to make it plausible.

The covenant is very general and indefinite in its reference to facts, but it was not intended for publication nor for the public, and we do not see but that it is all that ought to be expected under such circumstances. It shows nothing beyond the fact that the person who had circulated the stories damaging to Mr. Beecher, had become so well satisfied of their untruthfulness that he fully disavowed and retracted them. This covenant, although published so long after the Woodhull scandal, was signed long before; but it was signed after the events should have taken place as narrated by Woodhull, that is, between their reported occurrence and the publication of them. And yet Tilton, the party who should be most aggrieved, appears in the covenant as neither making nor believing any of the evil reports.

An investigation has been directed by Plymouth Church and is, now pending. The form this investigation takes is that of a trial of Henry C. Bowen, editor and proprietor of the N. Y. Independent and one of the parties to the covenant, for circulating false reports affecting the character of his pastor, Mr. Beecher. This will, of course, open up the whole subject of the truth or falsity of the charges. They are untrue unless the covenant was a mere agreement among rogues not to peach on each other, and it does certainly appear that the character of the men concerned in it is a sufficient guaranty against that.

Commissioner Smith of the Indian Bureau is on a pilgrimage to the lodge of Sitting Bull and the camp fire of Smoking Cloud. It is announced that he will also visit the Kiowas and Comanches, but the reporter does not hazard a guess as to the date of the Commissioner's return to Washington.

The venerable editor of the Worcester (Mass.) Spy is entertaining his readers with some retrospective (not retroactive) glances at his experiences as a member of Congress, and is making salutary application of them to the salary grab.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

LYONS DOWN. An Everyday Novel. By Edward C. Hale. Roberts Bro. Boston. From A. L. Bancroft & Co., San Francisco.

In the trading of many story books there is no end. In an age when one is so frequently reminded of this truth by the innumerable trashy novels or stories that appear, it is refreshing to meet so many original and sensible a novel as this of Mr. Hale's. The author evidently has not written this story simply for the sake of working a dark mysterious plot in which one or more execrable villains figure largely and honest people get themselves into very embarrassing not to say suspicious situations by doing something that no sensible, wide-awake person would ever do, and out of which they are extricated only by questionable means. The author has not done this but he has done better. He has given us a plain straight forward story of honest, intelligent people, possessing ordinary talents such people as one meets and loves to become acquainted with in every day life. His principal object appears to have been to impress upon the minds of young people a lesson that might well be heeded by old ones also that true success in life is attained not by uneasily shifting from pillar to post in search of lucrative and congenial employment, but by doing well whatsoever can be found to do, and sticking to business, even if it is not all that could be desired, until a good opening elsewhere presents itself. To do this work well—and Mr Hale always does well whatever he essays to—the author necessarily deals with the middle class of people, the class that comprises the greater part of the intelligence of the country, and performs the greater part of the labor manual and mental; the class which it has been until recently, the fashion to ignore almost entirely in works of fiction. It is a good omen for the morals of the world when fiction writers who are to a great extent public teachers of private morals gather their material from so wholesome a source. And it is likewise auspicious that so wholesome a code of social ethics as that which guides the author of this book is found capable of being interwoven with the old always-new story of love, without destroying the interest of the narrative.

MODERN MAGIC. By M. Schele De Vere. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

The author of this book has been prominently before the literary world for some time, but in departments of labor widely different from that in which he now appears. Like M. Louis Figuera, the mind of M. De Vere has been attracted to those problems that relate to the spiritual nature and constitution of man. The book before us is not, as its name might suggest, an addition to the numerous expositions of the performances of itinerant magicians—jugglers of various types—but a discussion of miracles, witch-craft, divination, etc., as presenting serious questions to philosophic minds. The author is of the opinion that it is impossible to controvert successfully the entire series of phenomena that have been refuted from time to time from the earliest history and have been ascribed to the possession of supernatural powers by certain individuals, or to the presence of spirits. He thinks the vulgar belief in witch-craft, Black Art, visions, ghosts, devination, etc., has under it a substratum of truth, and that all are the real phenomena out of which this belief has sprung, and referable to one and the same principle, namely, that man "possesses powers which are not subject to the general laws of nature, but more or less independent of space and time," and that "the soul may at times act independently of the body." Upon this hypothesis the author thinks the facts in connection with modern spiritualism may be accounted for, and he considers these facts strongly corroborative of the Bible. He maintains that whenever spiritualism takes its proper place as a system of psychological effects dependent upon the operation of the laws of man's spiritual nature, and not as the basis of the doctrines of a religious sect, it will be found the steadfast ally of the Christian religion. We have taken up no more interesting book than this in a long while.

THE ORGAN AT HOME a collection of new and standard music by the best of composers, for reed organs and melodeons. Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston and New York.

This is a book that supplies a want. Reed instruments will never be the favorite of the professional musician, nor of the most cultivated amateurs. But a vast majority of the people who play and sing are neither professionals nor highly cultivated amateurs. Their songs are the songs of home and hearthstone, and their instrument is the familiar organ that is good all the week through and excellent on a Sunday afternoon. "Let me write the songs of a people, and I care not who makes their laws." The man who said this was a true philosopher. He might have added, Let me write the songs of the people, and I care not who writes those of the musicians. With this view Ditson & Co. have brought out this book. With enough that is new to impart life and novelty to the work they have incorporated most of those old pieces of secular music that have maintained their standing through a generation. The Organ at Home is a large work, containing 180 pages of music sheet size, and is a book the publishers are justifiable in offering to the public "with pride and pleasure."

LONDON'S HEART. Travel. By E. L. Farjeon. Harper and Bros., New York.

This book does not vindicate the claim put forth by some of the author's friends that the mantle of Dickens has fallen upon him, but it is very well written, has a healthy tone and plot that is not bad. The chief features of the book are, a showing up in very strong colors of the narrow and one-sided theology that shuts the doors of heaven against all sects but ours and a sharp attack upon the abuses of the English tax-ation system.

The July number of the American Law Review has been handed us by A. L. Bancroft & Co. It is filled as usual with matter of interest to the legal profession. Its leading article is entitled "Accident Insurance," and is a discussion of the history and principles of the law relating to that branch of insurance. The advantages of the quarterly over the monthly magazine devoted to a specialty are apparent in this number.

A violent thunder shower, says the Times, visited a portion of Washington county, New York, on the 11th inst. Just as it came a farmer named Hardy, having been absent, returned home and drove into his barn with his son and two daughters in the wagon. Two men also sought shelter in the barn at the same time. Hardy conveyed his two daughters to the house and had scarcely reached it when the barn was struck by lightning and set on fire. He turned back and was horrified at finding his son lying dead on the floor, and the two men scorched by his side. The lightning had struck the lock at the back of the head and coursed down the spine, leaving it as though it had been done with a red-hot iron. The father hastily carried out the three bodies, and then rescued his horses and wagons. The flames spread rapidly, and, communicating to the wagon-house, horse-barn sheds corn-crib and other buildings, they were all consumed.

The latest dispatches leave the condition of affairs in Baltimore unascertained. The excitement made a report of the particulars of the conflagration, and the losses sustained, impossible. This is the greatest fire since that of Boston.

A MODEL ORATION.

The Northumberland Pa. Press contains a full report of an address delivered on the Fourth at that place by Col. David Taggart. We have listened to a good many Fourth of July speeches, and have read a few, and we undertake to say that this is the best thing of the sort we have ever seen or heard. Many of our readers know Col. Taggart, and those who are thus fortunate know that he is nothing if not original, but we of Oregon have not seen him at his best, as this oration, delivered at his native place among his neighbors and those with whom his entire early life was spent, abundantly shows. It is refreshing to find an address brimful of humor and wit and personal allusions and anecdotes—a real rollicking, frolicking, galaxy speech—in the place of the nauseous, flat beer orations that usually greet the eye in looking over the reports of celebrations of Independence Day.

THE SANITARY CONDITION OF PORTLAND.

The health of the city is remarkably good. Physicians say so, and they ought to know. But this very safe to predict that it will not continue good unless sanitary precautions are taken without delay.

In various parts of the city there are deposits which exhale poisonous gases with astonishing rapidity under the sun's rays, and more slowly but with greater deathliness in the night. These are found on private premises as well as in the streets. Judging from the odors, these nuisances must be abundant in groceries, meat-markets, hotels and saloons.

If the City Fathers would only use the sense of sight in discovering some of the outrages upon public health and decency, the city might have occasion to be infinitely thankful. On some private premises the worst nuisances exist.

A law with a search warrant in it, and a penalty attached to neglect, should be put in force immediately. A word to the wise.

The Pittsburg Leader, speaking of Joaquin Miller's story of the "End of a Leather Nose" in the Independent, thus gets over the most extravagant part:

Mr Miller, in beginning his narrative says that he shall put into it but one thing that is not true, so the reader has an opportunity to reject the scorbutic story if he likes, some of the other things he will find worth reading.

This extract would make a good editorial note if it were not credited, wouldn't it?

The New York Herald has recently engaged in an enterprise which speaks far more strongly and favorably of its wonderful energy than a dozen Stanley or Khivan expeditions. It is simply an exposure of the crimes and criminal classes of Philadelphia, the most Christian Quaker city. The correspondent makes his story horrible enough. His disgusting recital may serve a good purpose, however, in arousing the benevolent of the accused city to lend more active labors in behalf of the unfortunate wretches of whom the narrative treats. The Herald speaks of its story as "An exhibit most disgraceful to a Christian city preparing for an exhibition." Of course the reader of these startling disclosures reflects that the Herald might—to very good advantage, too—put a reporter in the dens of another Christian city preparing for an exhibition,"—a city nearer home, too. We mean New York.

It is said that the attention of the State Department at Washington has not yet been called to the Gordon difficulty in Manitoba, and on this account no official action has been taken. It is difficult to see just what the Government can do about it. The general belief at Washington seems to be that the British courts will have to determine the question whether or not the attorneys of the bail have a right, under the common law, to arrest the bailed on British soil. If the persons thus arrested shall be convicted, the only thing our Government can do will be to use its good offices. It would be the case of the Reman prisoners over again.

A correspondent at Port au Prince predicts troublesome times for the Haytien legislature at its opening in August. So intense is the party hatred arising from the recent elections—which are admitted on all sides to have been carried on in the most fraudulent manner possible—that bloodshed is inevitable. This startling story hasn't even the virtue of novelty. Bloodshed in Hayti is not an unusual matter.

The city of Seattle, it is evident from our correspondent's report, is not disposed to surrender without firing a shot. The plan adopted by its citizens to prevent the absorption of their city by Tacoma, is certainly comprehensive enough. The only question of its success is the question of capital, and the Seattle people ought to be the best judges of that question.

SAVINGS DEPARTMENT.

THIS BANK HAS ESTABLISHED IN CONNEction with its general Banking business a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT, and will allow Interest on Coin Deposits made in accordance with the conditions adopted by the Association.

In establishing a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT this Banking Association has in view the benefits to accrue to a class of persons having small sums to loan, by providing a safe place of deposit ample security and fair rate of interest, as well as to aggregate and bring into use idle capital.

For the safety of deposits in this Bank are pledged its entire capital and resources and also the personal liability of its Directors and Stockholders as provided by section 12 of the National Currency Act approved June 3 1864, a greater security than that given by ordinary savings Banks. Printed copies of the conditions upon which deposits are received may be had upon application at the Bank.

WILL LECTURE.—Rev. W. H. Meese will start East to-day, proposes to deliver a series of lectures on the resources of the Pacific Coast, and especially of Oregon. He will lay before the people of the Atlantic States a description of the climate and resources of our State, and also some of the wonderful scenery of which we boast. At Denver, bound East, he will commence to lecture, and continue on through to Boston. Mr. Meese is also engaged in preparing a book on the Resources of Oregon, which will be arranged in the form of questions and answers. Much benefit, it is to be hoped, will accrue to the State from the labors of this gentleman in the direction indicated.

CHANGE OF BOATS.—A change of steamers took place among the O. S. N. Co.'s boats on last Thursday. For months past the Oneonta has been lying at the boneyard, and the Emma Hayward has been running between Portland and the Cascades. There being a constant ... and now for lightening on the lower river, ... are loading with grain for Europe. ... the company determined to place the Oneonta on her old line. The Hayward was ordered to take the place of the Annie Stewart, now running between Astoria and Portland. By this ... the latter boat will be relieved from daily service, and will be used for lighting during the grain season.

READY LOADED.—The ship Middlesex which has been lying at the eastside wharf receiving ... for Europe has nearly completed her ... and will be towed down the river this afternoon. Her cargo has not been wholly received, but the vessel has taken on board as much as she can cross the Hog's Back with. The remainder of the cargo will be received at ... as the grain can be taken ... on the river steamers. Yesterday 4,... bushels of wheat were brought down from ... City on the E. N. Cooke. This grain was ... and to the Annie Stewart which ... now will tow the Middlesex down to Astoria and place the wheat on board.

LIGHT OF SAVAGE.—Says the Catholic Sentinel: "The 12th, 13th and 14th of August next ... are set apart by the Holy Father as ... days of intercession throughout the ... for their deliverance from her ... affliction. The Litany of the Saints is ... enjoined, and a plenary indulgence ... to those who say it on all three days, ... after making confession, go to communion on the F... of Assumption, August ... who say the Litany with this ... on only one of these days, an indulgence of seven years is granted."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—The Washington ... held a special election to ... caused by the death of Capt. ... ... to the order issued by ... M. V. Brown, First Regt., Second Brigade, ... M., at which Col. A. P. Dennison, ... General, presided. Horatio Cook, ... A. Lucas, Jr., were unanimously ... Several ballots were then had ... Lieutenant, rendered vacant ... death of Mr. Cook. After a ... contest, Mr. Al. Sutherland ... successful candidate.

The former John L. Stephens will ... for San Francisco. She carries the following passengers: Anton ... Hinsdale, J Regner, W ... W T Gray, Geo T Gray, ... Miss Lucy M Hubbard, ... Allen, Miss Bell, Mrs ... Applegate, Mrs J R Tyson, ... Capt. Bessie, wife and 2 ... Hosier, W I Marcus, ... M C Trengove, Edwin Russell, ... Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Messengers, and ten in ...

ARRIVAL.—Rev. Irvine Dillon, of the ... will by his family, will depart ... day morning en route for ... of Mount Hood. On Monday ... party, consisting of Revs. G. W. ... McCabe, J. D. Eaton, Mr. Watts and ... J. K. Gill and family, Mrs. Caples ... Mrs. Sutherland and several ... will leave for the same destination. ... will be at... from the city ... and the remainder of the ...

ARRIVAL.—In a few days Chief Happeus ... for the location of a Post ... the ground given to the city by ... G. & A. for that purpose. The ... be built of... containing six ... with stove, with a hall eight feet ... the ... A kitchen will be ... connected to the main building ... are now engaged in clearing ... story to commencing carpenter ...

ARRIVAL.—Thursday, the principal ... of the day, was occupied in the U. S. ... of Wm. Forsyth, indicted ... of liquor to an Indian. After ... ...ation, the jury returned a ... of guilty, accompanied by a recommendation ... to the Court. Yesterday ... by a fine of $50. This sum the defendant paid, and ... forthwith released from ... City.

HOW TO AMUSE.—Yesterday morning the ... of the Queen, John Smith, arrested a few ... came up for examination ... Police Court. The evidence of guilt ... ... the Court held the defendant ... before the Grand Jury in the ... of $200. The requisite bonds not being ... the defendant goes to jail until ... Monday of October.

CONTRACT AWARDED.—The Capitol Commissioners a few days ago, awarded the contract ... J. C. Fox, of this city, to furnish the iron ... the State House. The total amount ... to be furnished is about forty tons, and ... price is $4,500. Mr. Fox was for ... connected with the Willamette ... Works, as part owner, and for a long ... President and Manager.

DISGUSTING SPECTACLE.—An elderly woman, ... "honorable" gray hairs, was seen on ... street yesterday afternoon, demonstrating to the satisfaction of spectators that ... had absorbed a greater quantity of the ... than she was registered for. She fully ... the truth of the saying that ... not always bring discretion."

DISORDERLY CHARGE.—Officer Hickey was ... Monday on a charge of assault and ... and arraigned in the Police Court. The ... was made by a disreputable female ... Nellie Black. It appearing on the ... that the charge was a malicious one, the ... was promptly dismissed and the defendant discharged.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON.—Rev. W. R. Stewart ... will deliver the sermon on the occasion of the anniversary exercises held to-morrow ... by the Young Men's Christian ... The sermon will be delivered in the Taylor street M. E. Church. The public ... cordially invited to attend the exercises.

WORKS OUT TEMPORARILY.—For the present, the steamer Senator, which has been running between Portland and Oregon City, is drawn off for repairs, and the E. N. Cooke assumes the line. This change went into effect on Thursday. The Senator will soon go on the ... dock to receive an overhauling.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Rev. Mr. Freeman will occupy the pulpit to-... morning at the First Baptist Church. The regular evening services will be omitted. Sabbath School as usual.

Public worship at the First Congregational Church will be suspended during the month of August; the service to be held to-morrow morning will be the last previous to the pastor's vacation.

There will be preaching in the German language by the Rev. H. Gaus to-morrow at 9:30 ... in the Lecture Room of the Presbyterian Church, corner of Third and Washington streets. Sabbath school in the German language at the same place at 2 o'clock P. M., every Sabbath.

The Jolly Good Fellows will participate in a calico party at their rooms on Tuesday evening.

The rooms of the Progress Club will be opened to members and invited guests this evening.

Mr. Jacob Sprenger, present host of the St. Charles, will take the Russ House on the first instant.

A sail boat upset last evening opposite Flanders' wharf. The occupant got out and the boat was pulled ashore.

The iron work for Wells, Fargo & Co.'s building arrived yesterday and was being placed in position during the afternoon.

Chapelle's boat house, at the foot of Columbia street will be moved to the foot of Stark or Oak streets next week, probably.

A gang of Chinaman were busily engaged last evening in sawing several large logs on Alder street in the Chinese quarters.

Four nice young men will leave this city for Mount Hood in a few days. Hope they will have a pleasant trip and come back increased in weight.

Those who have a curiosity to see photographs of the redoubtable Capt Jack and other Modoc Chiefs can do so by calling at Buchtel & Stolte's gallery.

The Emma Hayward is now on the Astoria line, the Oneonta taking her place, and the Annie Stewart will be used until further notice as a lighter and for other service.

By the freight train Thursday evening arrived at the east side depot 15 cars wheat, 6 do. wool, 1 do. oats, 3 do stock, 1 do flour, and 3 containing various varieties of produce.

Mr. L. Pfunder in a few days will fit up the store-room now occupied by E. D. Tyne, as a drug store. The goods are on the way, and the opening may be anticipated about the 15th proximo.

What is the matter with the Firemen's Benevolent Association? We hope there are enough spirited gentlemen in the department who will take hold and make the organization a fixture.

We are pleased to state that Mr. Jas. F. Gallagher, First Assistant Engineer, who was injured on Monday night at the fire is able to attend to his duties about his store. The cut in his head, though, at the moment it occurred seemed slight, proved more serious than was anticipated, and the services of a physician were required.

OUT DOOR SPORTS.

At New York, 14th inst., Atlantic, 18; Athletic, 7. 15th—Mutual, 13; Boston, 4.

The Oregon City Enterprise says the prints of that city are ready to meet the prints of this city. We are certain they can't attend to any matters of a base ball nature beyond that of witnessing the Pioneer-Pacific game. They will attend to the challenge in due season.

Boating is becoming more popular, and we trust enough interest will be taken in it to get up prizes for which the contestants will row, and the races to take place in front of the city, the starting time to be about 4 o'clock. Let us have a trial of muscular power on the water, with an object to make it interesting. The affair cannot help but be a success, if well managed.

This evening, commencing at 5 o'clock, the St. George Cricket Club, recently organized in Portland, will meet for practice at the grounds south of the city, near the railroad. Practice will continue until dark, when the Club will adjourn to the Washington Guard Armory for the transaction of business. As the Constitution and By-laws, for the government of the Club, are to be adopted, a full attendance is desired. The Club is said to be in a very prosperous condition. Its membership, at present, number 32. For the present, the Club will practice south of the city limits, but as soon as the water subsides, permanent grounds will be laid off on the east side of the river, directly opposite the city. A match game, to take place between the married and single men of the Club, is projected, and will probably take place in a few weeks.

At 1:30 P. M., the Pacific and Pioneer clubs will meet on the grounds west of the Academy to engage in the third and decisive game of the series. Mr. Wm. Warren, of the Clackamas club, has consented to act as umpire, which is satisfactory to both clubs. The Pioneers will present their full nine, and the Pacifics will be strengthened by the re-appearance of Henderson on the first base. Other positions in the Pacific's nine will be filled by new players whose abilities are first-class, rated as amateurs. Accommodations for ladies are provided, and we presume the attendance of the fair sex will give the contesting nines encouragement. We want to see the game played without any unnecessary grumbling, and it will be to the credit of the players not to enter into any disputes, and furthermore we trust the score will not show above the teens. "Man to the bat—Play."

THE CITY'S FIRE CISTERNS.

PORTLAND, 25 July, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In this morning's Bulletin I notice an article making a sweeping reference to the cisterns belonging to the city, which virtually claims that all the cisterns are faulty, of bad workmanship, and "constantly leaking."

Feeling that this may work an injustice to myself at least, if not others, I ask the Committee on Fire and Water to examine the three cisterns built by me at the intersections of Seventh and Harrison, Tenth and Washington, and Fifth and G streets, and ascertain for themselves that all the work done in that line for the city has not been faulty, and that the city has not been "defrauded" in every instance. Yours respectfully,

THOMAS HUNTINGTON.

PERSONAL.

Prof R K Warren, President of the Albany College, is in the city for a brief season.

Mr. A. B Meacham is in the city at present. He will start for Fairchild's Ranch in a few days.

By the steamer which will sail for San Francisco, the Rev. W. H. Meese will take his departure for the East. Mr. Meese recently graduated in the scientific course at the Wallamet University. His intention is to take a thorough theological course at the University in Boston. He will be absent from the State about three years.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

We refer our readers to the new ads on second page.

Martin, indefatigable as ever, has something to say this morning. Read it, ponder over it, prepare your coin, and then go to Martin's. He advertises, and is on the road to success.

Notwithstanding the incessant cry made by croakers of hard times, Richardson, the popular auctioneer continues to sell at his place of business. As usual, this doughty knight of the hammer will sell at his rooms to-day a large and very choice lot of groceries, furniture and also some desirable real estate. See his proclamation.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

Frank Mayo is at the California Theatre.

Vivian is about to pass through California professionally.

Philip Phillips the sweet singer, was at Grass Valley, California, on the 16th inst.

The Rosedale Dramatic Troupe disbanded some days ago. Mr. and Mrs. Lipsey returned to San Francisco.

You will be astonished to know that you pay 25 per cent less on boots and shoes at the opposition store, Theater building, than elsewhere. It is an established fact.

LOCAL MATTERS IN A ROUGH GALE.

We have been handed a letter by a gentleman in this city who it was written by Mr W. Goodman, who was on board the ship Bothwell Spencer at the time she encountered the terrible gale off the coast of South America. The letter, which contains a long account of the disaster, was written at Valparaiso under date of May 21st. From it we are permitted to make the following extracts:

On Sunday, April 27th, the morning opened stormy, and continued so up to a late hour in the day, compelling us to take in all the sails and Sawyer thought he would leave the ship but altered his mind and decided to run her a while longer before the gale. On the 28th at 8 o'clock A. M. he called all the hands aft and told them to stay there for their own safety, for if the ship broached to the heavy sea would be apt to sweep the decks clear. At this time the vessel was leaking, and it was with great difficulty that the men could refuse at the pumps. Often there was three feet of water on the decks. On the evening of the 28th the foretopmast and staysail commenced to split and we were compelled to haul it down to save it. At 2:30, on the morning of the 29th, the vessel shipped a tremendous sea completely burying herself as far forward as the main mast, and washed overboard Mr C W Hatfield, our chief mate, and two other men, viz Moses Davis (a colored man), and Thomas Dodd, a native of England. A man named Schmidt was so badly injured that he died in a few hours. Mr. Hatfield had just been forward to get me out from one of the spare spars, where the heavy sea had washed me. We were both standing together on the poop not more than half a minute before he was carried away and lost. I started to go below to get a hat as mine had been washed overboard. Not more than twenty seconds elapsed after I left him when the sea struck the vessel and swept the entire length of the deck. Through about three feet of water I waded up from the cabin and found that Mr Hatfield and two other men had been washed off. Capt. Sawyer was standing on the deck at the time, but he managed to save himself by jumping up and clinging to the rigging. With great difficulty we managed to take in the foretopsail, there being only five men besides myself uninjured, and have the ship to. We had much trouble with the braces, which were entangled with the wreck of the broken bulwarks. Besides the total destruction of our boats and bulwarks, the sea had made a complete wreck of the cabin, destroying nearly all the Captain's nautical books, charts, barometer, etc. After clearing away the wreck, we started the pumps. It took six hours steady pumping to clear the hold. Capt. Sawyer kept the ship up for Valparaiso, at which port she arrived in safety on the 19th of May. Twice the Captain has kept her away from Cape Horn, the last time the crew refusing to do duty, thus compelling us to continue on to Valparaiso. In consequence of the broken condition of the bulwarks we did not have a dry place to put our feet from the time the gale occurred, until this port was reached. When the storm overtook the ship, we were in lat. 45°, long. 112° 48' west, 2,000 miles from Cape Horn, and 1,930 miles from Valparaiso.

The cargo is considerably damaged and will have to be discharged. It is possible that the ship will be condemned. About 100 tons of wheat is so badly damaged that it cannot be shipped further. From present appearances the ship will be detained here for two months at least, if not longer.

THE COURTS.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT—DEADY, J.

FRIDAY, July 25, 1873.

U. S. vs. Geo. Salty; disposing of liquor to an Indian; cause on trial.

U. S. vs. Wm. Forsyth; same offense; verdict of guilty, with recommendation of mercy; fined $50.

KALAMA NOTES.

Our occasional correspondent, writing from Kalama, sends the following items:

The trip to Tacoma is now made in a day, if you meet the outgoing steamer on Tuesday evening at Olympia. From 6 to 9:30 A. M. is the time from Portland to Kalama. Waiting here till 1 o'clock P. M., you find time to take a look at the real work of the place. This does not appear in the buildings, though some of them are good and excellent, but the shops furnish a study. A few men in the blacksmith shops perform all the work for the new and old road, and for the car buildings and repairs.

Mr. John Wilson, the foreman, formerly of Scotland—though many years in America and the Sandwich Islands seems at home in all the details of the shop.

Mr. J. F. Curtis, general foreman of machinery, very courteously gave information respecting the manipulation of wood and iron in building and repairs.

Mr. D. W. Treat, foreman of the car shops, added facts of interest respecting the strength and value of the woods of this region for all the purposes of railroads and car building and furnishing.

Mr. Curtis says the Northern Pacific Railroad Company at first used Eastern timber, as it was better seasoned. Now they use only the woods of Washington Territory for all their work. Just now they are building a first-class passenger coach of the ash, fir and maple. The curly maple makes the finest veneering. Two first-class baggage cars are to be made of ash, fir and cedar—all of native growth. The trees are now cut and brought to Kalama mills, where they are sawed and worked up.

No more Eastern timber will be used for cars or furnishing on the north end of the N. P. R. R.

FINALLY DECIDED.

It is an old but true saying that a man is known by the books he reads and the company he keeps. This saying is illustrative of the great sewing machine war, in which nearly all the second-class machines have played prominent parts, expending much ammunition and making forced marches attended with great loss. But our readers have not seen the name of the world renowned GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE flourished before the people in the above connection, and this dignified reserve has established the popularity of the GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE, now and forever. It stands on its respectability and merits. These machines make the ELASTIC STITCH and SHUTTLE STITCH, and will be sold on installments of $10 per month. W. T. Shanahan, agent, 71 First street.

FOR SALE AT AUCTION

Upon Easy Terms.

That most desirable property known as "THE DISTILLERY," adjoining the Railroad Ferry Landing, having a frontage of 123 feet, with a depth of 180 feet to low water mark, and with the privilege of further constructing a wharf and warehouse to the river channel. Also, including a large two and a half story substantial store and brick building,—suitable for a warehouse or store—and a one-story fire-proof warehouse. This property is adjacent to the Steamship wharves, Railroad depot, Ferry boat landing, and near the proposed Rail and Wagon road bridge to East Portland. Likewise in view of the North Pacific railroad, which crosses the river near that point, and is the best piece of business property in Portland. This valuable estate will enhance in value rapidly with the increasing demand for wharfage, and for other business purposes. It will be sold in three separate parts. The first, the vacant part adjoining the Ferry boat landing. The second part, comprising the large stone and brick building. The third part, including the Fire proof building.

The value of this property as an investment and for business purposes cannot be surpassed.

Sold by A. B. Richardson, Saturday, Aug. 2d.

Some people may become excited over the "gold mines" of the Northern Pacific Railroad—but sound but it does not disturb Buck & Waldman, corner Front and Washington streets, in the least, as they intend to pursue the usual course to their customers, and that is to sell goods at prices which will enable those with limited means to provide themselves with good clothing at a very small outlay of money. Parents should bring their children to this house for neat fitting suits.

Why linger in blissful ignorance? Why do you wander about seeking a place where they keep the largest and finest stock of Summer Clothing? Why pay high prices for goods when the fact has been long established in the great firm of J. KOHN & Co. of Front street, sell Clothing and Gents Furnishing Goods so cheap. They keep the best, they sell the cheapest and what more can be asked?

Dr. Hufeland, the originator of Buchu, has the satisfaction of knowing that all his imitators have failed to produce the benefits his preparation insures. Helmbold's Extract Buchu Cures. The others disappoint. Persons suffering from Kidney Complaint, Gravel, Premature Decay, Loss of Vigor or any souvenir of indiscretion cannot apply the remedy too soon. The great point is to get the genuine Buchu Extract which is Helmbold's and no other.

MILITARY NOTES.

Major Eggleston, Paymaster, has gone to Boise, Harney and other camps to pay the troops.

Major Eckerson, formerly connected with this Military Department is at present stationed at Fortress Monroe.

Capt A H Nickerson is at present stationed in Arizona. He is Assistant Adjutant-General on General Crook's staff.

Lieut L V Cazare connected with General Canby's staff as Aid-de-camp, is stationed at Fort Johnson, North Carolina.

Gen Jeff. C Davis, Commander of the Department of the Columbia, reached this city last evening from Eastern Oregon.

Mr J. M Page for years clerk in the Commissary of Subsistence Department under Maj Bell went to San Francisco seven weeks since.

Lieutenant H. R. Anderson who was aid-de-camp on General Canby's staff for several years, is now stationed at Fort Alcatraz, California.

Major Mason prominent in the Modoc war is expected to assume command of the post at Lapwai, as the garrison there is to be increased.

Major Bell is forwarding to Walla Walla 15,000 rations, or about twenty tons of provisions to supply all the posts in the upper country.

Mr J M. Reed formerly connected with the firm of Hewett, Wilson & Co., has been appointed to a clerkship in the Paymaster's office, by Col. Rucker.

Gen Davis is entitled to three Aides-de-camp, but as yet has appointed but one—Capt. Sumner. He will doubtless make the other appointments in a few days.

Gen Rufus Saxton, who was ordered to report at the headquarters of the Department of the Lakes, arrived at Detroit and was assigned duty on the 23d of June. He is connected with the Chief Quartermaster's Department.

Col David Taggart is now at Washington. He is doing temporary duty in the Chief Quartermaster's Department during the absence of Col Eaton. Since his departure two months have been added to his leave of absence, so that he will be absent from Portland six months. He will not return till next fall.

Captain O. W. Pollock is now in this city on a temporary leave of absence. Since he was ordered from this Department, about two years since, he has been stationed most of the time in Arizona. Last winter he was ordered to Erie, Pennsylvania, to report for recruiting service. A few months ago he obtained a furlough, and came to Portland, where he will remain some days. Captain Pollock is accompanied by his wife, who is a daughter of R. R. Thompson, Esq.

General Jeff. C. Davis has designated the following named troops for service in Eastern Oregon, and they will constitute a separate command: Troops B, F, G, H and K, of the First Cavalry, under command of Major John Green; Companies B, C and I, of the Twenty-first Infantry, and Battery E, Fourth Artillery, under command of Major E. C. Mason. As soon as the services of Companies A, G, K and M, Fourth Artillery, can be dispensed with as a guard to public property, they will report to their proper stations in the Department of California, and as soon as Light Battery B, Fourth Artillery, and Companies K and G, Twelfth, can be dispensed with as a guard to the Modoc prisoners, they will report to their proper stations in the Department of California.

DUELING IN NEW ORLEANS.

HOW A YOUNG KENTUCKIAN WENT TO HIS DEATH TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

BY T. B. THORPE.

"Neither party being hurt on the first fire the friends of Col. Rhett demanded another shot, which was promptly accorded."—New Orleans Times.

Such is the significant paragraph, copied from the account of an "eye-witness" of the late duel in New Orleans. Here we have in the most direct manner the statement of the cause of the death of Judge Cooly, which is placed where it belongs, on the conscience of the seconds. All writers who have paid any attention to the workings of the code duello agree that in this case, on the seconds in most cases, rather than on the principals, rests the crime of murder. "The friends of Col. Rhett demanded another shot!" and the helpless victim, sarcastically termed the "first parties," stand helplessly by while the seconds pleasantly group themselves together, and send home the powder and ball, which is not to be used against them, for "they stand outside of the line of fire." But against those who for the time being are as helpless for defense as turkeys staked at a Christmas country-shooting-match "Another shot was promptly accorded," so no one suggested explanations and a possible reconciliation, in the course of which there might have been a peaceful ending of a recontre which, even according to the most strained construction of "the code," the cause of the quarrel considered, had had its requirements in the first fire fully fulfilled.

The history of dueling in the South is one continued dark chapter, not a single instance can be cited where it has served to avenge a great wrong, its only uses have been to crush out the helpless and to feed revenge. Before the rebellion almost every distinctive Southern community, whether large or small, had its acknowledged authority in the "code." With few exceptions, these fearful functionaries were "broken-down gentlemen," whose antecedents connected them with the "old families," and having no taste for honest industry, they inspired in the community a terror and admiration often so perfect that they absolutely, in their own services, lived upon the value of their skill of approbation, or on the fears of their condemnation. It was the business of these men to decide upon social etiquette, upon modes of speech—to translate the subtle meanings of looks, and, according to their humor, or their interest, to breed quarrels, and act as arbiters of meetings, and supervise dueling correspondence, and finally, if it could not be avoided, to perform the part of seconds anything, indeed, to bring them prominently before the community through such channels as violent discussions in the bar-room and notices in the local Press.

Now-a-days, when cotton was most "king," had a man in its midst who had control of the "code." He was a promising lad, of that fully blown Cæsar of modern French bullies, Granier de Cassagnac. Without a single qualification they entered into the composition of a good citizen, he was the scourge of the community. Making his head-quarters at the central gathering-places of the French quarter of the city, he was the oracle on matters of honor. He criticised the sayings and doings of the saloons; the style of the arguments of the learned members of the Bar, gave the true meanings of the [illegible] of the local Press. He assigned to individuals, if he chose, their several positions, and would by a flat paralyze and put down any one whom he thought interfered. His favorite method was to get those whom he disliked, or agreed to dislike for the benefit of others, into the meshes of a preliminary duel, through the means of which he generally had his victim disgraced or killed.

This man has his representative in most of the large Southern cities, they were bred from a false public sentiment, just as mosquitoes originate and riot in a festering flesh. As the rumblings of the thunder-ended storm that broke at last into open rebellion were heard in the distance, and the glimmering flashes that followed, more than checked the estrepope, the "youthful chivalry" in their misconception of character, looked instinctively toward the notorious duelists for men who, when the fight did begin, would be leaders in the fray. These "man slayers," according to the code, with a wider field of action, were to [illegible] they are to tear their bloody plumes by inscribing insignia of daring deeds.

But what the [illegible]? Not a noted on an obscure duelist answered to the summons that came back from the frowning walls of Fort Sumter. There he stood still, and their souls quailed at the command for that steady courage which evolves the truly brave face to face for a principle. The whole crew of the [illegible] ers of death by the means of the duello in the entire South sank out of sight, burying themselves in safe places, residing as leaders of the "stay-at-home guards, or ending their infamy in the, to them, agonizing death arising from the consumption of bad whisky. They proved in an unmistakable way, by their conduct, that the good [illegible] duelist, as a rule, was entirely [illegible] of the first qualities of manly courage, and stamped the pursuit or profession with such [illegible] that it appears strange that the spirit of the duello, for a score of years, at least, in the South, can find a lodging place in the hearts of men whom God designed as ornaments of society and exemplars of the [illegible] of American citizenship.

More than a quarter of a century ago New Orleans was the central point of a duel, the particulars of which are vividly recalled by the [illegible] ding events of the recently-profound [illegible]. At the date alluded to, a young man, hailing from the State of Kentucky, made his appearance in the city, who attracted attention from his rare [illegible] personal beauty, great intelligence, and winning manners. He was tall, fair complexioned, with a bright, smiling face, set off with a profusion of golden hair. The era was one of hospitality, especially for the sons of the "dark and bloody ground," and young Burt, in furtherance of his pursuit—the study of law—though without the necessity of the [illegible], soon found an anchorage in the office of one of the best lawyers, who introduced him in the mysteries of his chosen profession, with such success that, between the [illegible] of the master and the ability of the pupil, ere a year elapsed the [illegible] adventurer found himself, not only a lawyer, but in possession of a paying practice.

His course was a continued success. Every one hailed his good fortune. He seemed to be exempt from creating the hostility of envy. Flattered by society, he was the central point of the fashionable party. Acknowledged as a rising star in the profession, he was a favorite with the elder members of Bar and Bench. High spirited, ambitious, and desiring to excel in all honorable ambitions, he united himself with one of the two great political organizations of the day, and was soon the acknowledged leader of the young men of his adopted home; the head and front of the very best blood and talent from all parts of the United States, that superior enterprise and prospects of success had at the time attracted to the "Crescent City."

But young Burt, in all this triumph, had a source of constant uneasiness and apprehension. He was eminently a self-made man. Left an orphan in the tenderest years, he was indebted to the sacrifices of a devoted mother and two accomplished sisters for the means that carried him through his studies, and placed him on his feet; and this sacred history nettled him; he had no proud title of family precedence; no local distinction of reflected lights; no patent, he feared, of acknowledged station, and overestimating the value of what he did not possess, he evidently conceived the idea that in the high-spirited society of the great Southern metropolis, he must be the hero of a duel, to make unquestioned the place his personal and intellectual merits were rapidly assigning him. In short, the fiend of the duello was weaving a net about his feet, the "brilliant reputation" of the great (!) duelist we have described made all his noble triumphs appear loosely held in his grasp—the temptation of a fiend possessed him.

Of all the magnificent gatherings that distinguished the St. Charles Hotel that winter we allude to, none reached the splendor achieved the night when young Burt led into the center of the ball-room the acknowledged belle of the evening. The ladies looked with unconcealed envy upon the lovely representative of their sex; the gentlemen felt without a show of jealousy that they were once fitly represented. The idea was overwhelming, the sets were always instantly made up, and it appeared as if Burt and his lovely partner, for want of indecent haste, would find no place, when an opening presented itself, and without apparently noticing that a lady, for the moment unaccompanied by a gentleman, was intruded upon, the resplendent couple, as by right of royal precedence, took possession and waited for the music to begin.

A moment more and a most quiet, unpretentious Englishman, but little known in New Orleans, and that little simply as a business man, politely signified to young Burt that he had intruded, and pointed to his lady partner as an evidence of his assertion. The fiend triumphed, this noble representative of natural courtesy forgot himself, and taking from his right hand his unsoiled glove, he gracefully dashed it across the face of the astonished stranger, then handing him his card, he turned to receive the proud glance of approval shot from the eye of his resplendent partner.

The deeply wronged man to the surprise of all who noticed the transaction, displayed no excitement, but without looking around to see the effect of what had occurred, without even looking at the superscription, he put the card, as if it were very valuable, carefully in his pocket-book, and offering his arm to the lady in his charge, quietly moved away and was in a moment more lost to the crowd. The professed duelists at the ball—and there were many who noticed the affront and the manner of its reception—shrugged their shoulders and passed telegraphic signals; something had evidently occurred which met with their approval. Meanwhile the music struck up, and Burt and his beautiful partner were more than heretofore the center of admiration—Burt prouder than ever that he had so gallantly achieved a place on the floor, and the lady more radiant because her escort had possibly imperiled his life that she might not be disappointed in a polka.

The expected challenge came the day following the result, and the meeting was secretly arranged for the afternoon of the following day. The morning preceding, Burt surpassed himself in a splendid argument before one of the district courts. At its conclusion, his admirers, all impressions of the pending meeting, congratulated him on his success.

An hour later, with a few friends, he was on his way to the "Meterie Ridge." There they discovered the Englishman and his friends already on the ground.

The story is now quickly ended. The Cooley and Rhett duel repeated most strangely the ceremony—the weapons, the distance, and the orders were exactly followed. On the first fire both parties escaped. As Burt and his antagonist were absolutely strangers to each other, one of the seconds suggested that there might be explanations. The Englishman, in reply, without showing any feeling, remarked that he was not desirous of continuing the duel. An instant more and the meeting would have amicably ended, when one of the advising friends of young Burt, and his friend par excellence, and the friend of his mother and sisters (!) demanded "another shot!"

The Englishman's face suffused with blood, and then turned deadly pale; then his eye flashed with unwonted indignation. Taking his weapon with rude grasp, at the word "fire," he shot Burt instantly dead satisfying those who witnessed the terrible performance that he had at the first fire chivalrously spared the young man from the fatal consequences of a diseased and wretched public opinion that had driven him into a duel.

From the stricken home of the humble widow and faithful sisters there came no wail that ever reached the busy world. Death soon relieved the heart-broken parent of a life that insanity had mercifully rescued from agony too much to be borne. The rest is involved in the unwritten history of those homes desolated by the duel.

GENERAL NOTES.

Vermont is a fortunate State. Its outstanding debt now amounts to only $297,600.

A Maine farmer has put up on his land a sign reading: "No Gun IN aloud Hear."

Bowdoin College has sent out 1,765 graduates, and 1,003 of them have become physicians.

A Boston jeweler has on exhibition what he claims to be the largest diamond in the United States. It weighs thirty-two carats, and has a yellow tinge.

It is intimated that Pennsylvania's Treasurer, Hon. Robert W. Mackey, would be pleased to succeed Hon. John Scott in the United States Senate.

Gov. Carpenter, of Iowa, has decided not to call the convention of Western and Southern Governors, to consider the transportation question, until the fall.

Boston has given up its intended harbor excursions for poor children, for want of funds. Only about $300 was contributed, and this is to be returned to the givers.

The General Government has recovered a verdict in the United States Court, in Austin, Texas, for $47,885, against R. H. Lane, on his collector's bonds and his sureties.

The Chicago Board of Trade has contributed $500 to the Inter-Ocean's poor children's picnic fund, and one of the picnics to begiven will be called the Board of Trade excursion.

The Providence Journal wants capital punishment retained a while, at least for those who set fire to dwelling-houses, and for those who put obstructions on railroad tracks.

An Illinois paper doesn't complain because ex-Gov. Palmer insists in speaking so often on the railroad question, but because "every time he speaks he has a new theory on the subject."

A Connecticut farmer, who set out an elaborate scare-crow in his strawberry patch, was disgusted to find that a pair of robins had built their nest, and were raising their young, under its hat.

They found the body of a boy in the lake at Chicago, the other day, with a pair of skates on his feet. It was identified as the remains of a lad who went through the ice, a mile from shore, on New Year's Day.

A Leavenworth photographer has been explaining the altogether-too-elaborate way in which he procured a "spirit" photograph. He says he first took a picture of Mr. Harris, and painted his whiskers out. Then he cut the face out of an old lady's photograph, and pasted Harris' face in. He made a negative from this, and then a transparent positive. He next held this positive before a sensitized plate in a dark room, and the ghost-picture was made.

Gold in New York to day, 11[illegible].

Portland Legal Tender rates 87½ buying 88 selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 86 fine

Wheat in Liverpool—Average Club [illegible] 10s 10d Club [illegible] 10s 8d

The heaviest shipment of gold [illegible] the season from New York for Europe was made on the 9th inst. The Tribune of [illegible] says that the present state of our foreign [illegible] is such as to export has nothing in it to awaken anxiety, while the premium which [illegible] in London add to the other influences tending to [illegible] no cause of Gold toward London for [illegible] shortly. When the causes which have created [illegible] the shipment are more fully known they will probably be found not to [illegible] such [illegible] the speculative element. We are rather disposed to think that the export movement ought to cause [illegible] working out of the commercial [illegible] to [illegible] which has rapidly accumulated in consequence of the small exports and heavy imports of the past [illegible] for the next we can spare the gold and England needs the supply which we can so easily and so promptly dispense with

A more important question is whether the first weeks in August and September will bring a similar export of gold to that which marked the beginning of July. The French payments of those two months will complete the indemnity transfers, and will be likely to cause a considerable demand for Gold in London. It is also worthy of note that the Bank of England seems to have found a way to draw Gold from this market at the very moment of putting down its maximum rate of discount. This fact is one of some interest both here and in England. It supports the theory which has been often affirmed in this journal, and whether it foreshadows a change of policy or not on the part of the Bank of England, it is well worth watching. When the Bank of France suspended specie payments we ventured to predict that during the suspension of that institution the Bank of England would be unable to attract Gold to its vaults by the device of raising the rate of discount. We assigned reasons for believing that this method of attracting Gold which was wholly unknown to the bank management prior to 1844, might probably have to be given up altogether, and that something better should be substituted. It is in perfect conformity with this view that during the past year or two the Bank of England has never been able to keep up the rate of interest long enough to cause a turn in the foreign exchanges so as to replenish its depleted reserves. These questions are now assuming more importance in relation to our coin exports and other financial movements.

There are several reasons which seem to render it improbable that the export of Gold, if it extends into August and September, will reach any large aggregate. First, such an exportation would not be likely except as a result of some exigency connected with the closing French payments. But it must be remembered that the Bank of France has consented to pay out a heavy amount of its coin reserve, so that little, if any, Gold will be probably needed from any other source to form a basis for these payments. Secondly, the Gold coinage of the German government is not likely to go on so rapidly as was intended, owing to an unexpected difficulty. The States of Bavaria and Saxony, anxious to prolong the time of their paper money system, which they find too profitable to be given up all at once have contrived to put off the time of settling the new coinage law in operation for three [illegible].

To these indications we may add the fact that the recoinage of Gold and Silver coins of small denominations, will, of necessity, begin soon, and will cause the German importation of Gold to diminish. On the whole, therefore, our probable shipments of Gold during the next three months will not be likely to exceed moderate limits. But of course the whole subject is beset with such a complicated series of doubtful exigencies that nothing more solid than a conjecture can be laid on the subject.

U. S. Marshal's Sale.

WHEREAS in a suit in Equity in the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, in the Second Judicial Circuit, wherein the estate of E. Cataldo is complainant and J. S. Kast and J. Frederica Kast, his wife, are defendants, a decree was made and entered that, amongst other things, lots No. two (2) in block No. fifty-nine (59) in Couch's Addition to the city of Portland, in the State of Oregon, be sold at public auction, as upon execution, for cash in hand, and the proceeds thereof brought into this Court.

Therefore by virtue of said decree, and of the writ thereupon issued out of said Court, to me directed, I did, on the 23d day of July, 1873, levy upon the above mentioned and described property, and on Monday, the 25th day of August, 1873, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., of that day, at the Court House door, in said city of Portland, I will sell the said property at public auction to the highest bidder therefor, for cash in hand.

Dated at Portland, in said District, the 22d day of July, 1873.

THOS. G. YOUNG, U. S. Marshal for the District of Oregon.
